

Education / Seminars Sponsored by IDA

IDA sponsors major technical sessions, typically in collaboration with a major educational or governmental institution. These conferences are normally 3 day sessions oriented to a specific application area for superabrasives.

Make plans to attend the biennial mega-conference on Industrial Diamond, Cubic Boron Nitride and their applications, coming to Chicago, Illinois in May of 2011. Keep watching these pages for more information.

Currently under development is the Superabrasives Certificate Course. This unique course offers not only technical information but also practical, hands-on instruction on how to properly select, setup, and run superabrasive tools and wheels in a broad range of today's industrial applications.

For information on current schedules contact IDA.
